

Company Programs

Company dancers are highly dedicated individuals who possess a deep passion for dance. They are willing to invest significant time and effort into their training. By choosing dance as their primary extracurricular activity, these dancers demonstrate their commitment to pursuing excellence in jazz, contemporary, ballet and lyrical dance.

The Company dancers prioritize their dance training over other activities and commitments. They understand that to achieve phenomenal results individually and as a team, they need to invest a substantial amount of time and effort. They have a strong drive to do their best and continually strive for improvement.

Becoming a Company dancer requires a significant commitment not only from the dancers themselves but also from their parents or guardians. Parents play a vital role in supporting their child's dance journey, as they often need to provide transportation, financial resources, and emotional support. They understand the level of dedication required and are willing to invest in their child's dance training.

The selection process for Company dancers involves auditions, which typically take place twice a season, in June and August. These auditions assess various factors, including the dancer's age, skill level, commitment history, as well as their goals and objectives as a dancer. The aim is to select dancers who not only possess technical proficiency but also demonstrate a strong work ethic, dedication, and potential for growth.

Overall, being a Company dancer is a rewarding but demanding experience. It requires a high level of commitment from the dancers and their parents. However, the opportunity to train intensively, work towards common goals, and achieve exceptional results makes the journey worthwhile for these passionate individuals.

Required Classes:

- RAD Ballet program (minimum of two classes per week, some levels may require three classes per week)
- Technique
- Choreography
- Flexibility and strengthening

Optional but Strongly Recommended:

- Acro
- Tap
- Musical Theatre
- Hip Hop

Audition: Required.

Email us at info@dancetheme.com or give us a call at 780-475-5930 if you are interested in joining the Company team.